The term diaspora derives from “dispersion”, referring to the forced or encouraged displacement of people. Populations of unauthorized migrants can be conceived of as a mass of displaced people who bridge their sending and receiving countries, while at the same time experiencing exclusion from belonging in either society. We will examine legislation governing foreigners from several perspectives to identify the tools unauthorized immigrants may use to access law and justice in situations of inequity, exploitation, inequality, detention and victimization.

WS318 Unauthorized migration and the diasporas: Examining the rights of immigrants

The term diaspora derives from “dispersion”, referring to the forced or encouraged displacement of people. Populations of unauthorized migrants can be conceived of as a mass of displaced people who bridge their sending and receiving countries, while at the same time experiencing exclusion from belonging in either society. We will examine legislation governing foreigners from several perspectives to identify the tools unauthorized immigrants may use to access law and justice in situations of inequity, exploitation, inequality, detention and victimization.

ORGANIZER(S)
- Maria João Guia, University of Coimbra (Portugal) · eucaliptar@hotmail.com
- Juliet Stumpf, Lewis & Clark Law School (United States)

CHAIR
- Stephen Legomsky, Washington University School of Law (United States)

DISCUSSANT
- Juliet Stumpf, Lewis & Clark Law School (United States)

PARTICIPANTS
- Doris Marie Provine, Arizona State University (United States) · The Disappearing Rights of Unauthorized Immigrants in the United States
- André Costa Jorge, Jesuit Refugee Service, (Portugal) · Advocating for Migrants (human) rights: The Jesuit Refugee Service Experience
- Duarte Miranda Mendes, High Commission For Immigration And Intercultural Dialogue (Portugal) · Access to Rights in the Host Territories
- Maria João Guia, University of Coimbra (Portugal) · The Illegality Stigma and the Role of State: Unauthorized Immigrants and their Access to Rights in Portugal
- Alan Desmond, University College Cork (Republic of Ireland) · Irregular Immigrants in the EU: A Right to Regularisation?
- Joas Campos, University of Coimbra (Portugal) · Prüm Decisions and Unauthorized Migration
- Robert Koulish, University of Maryland (United States) · Suspected Undocumented and Suspension of Mobility